

Information for lecturers

Use of the Plagiarism Software PlagAware at the University of Bremen

- How do I get an account for the plagiarism software?

You can create a user account free of charge with the licence key of the University of Bremen at www.plagaware.com. The use of an e-mail address of the University of Bremen is required. If you do not have the licence key, you can request it from plagaware@uni-bremen.de.

- Which documents can be checked?

All written student work and dissertations can be checked with the software. It is necessary to remove personal information of the authors (name, address, registration number, etc.) before checking (by excluding pages, blackening, etc.).

- What happens to the data?

The reviewed papers are stored in the database on the servers of PlagAware and are available as comparison documents for future reviews, provided that the author has given permission for permanent storage and comparison.

Consent to storage on the server can be revoked at any time by notifying the lecturer.

PlagAware is a German company based in Neu-Ulm.

- What sources are used for the review?

In addition to the institution's own database, PlagAware takes into account all documents freely available on the internet.

- Where can I get support with questions and problems?

Please contact the Teaching and Study Unit at plagaware@uni-bremen.de.
