

The SOCIUM is looking for a student assistant (f/m/x) (10h/week)

As of 01.10.24 we are looking for a student assistant in the working group “Global Social Policy” (Prof. Dr. Sarah Berens) at the SOCIUM. The working hours are 10 hours per week. The contract will initially run for six months with the possibility of extension.

Your tasks:

- Collaboration in the preparation of data sets (survey data, cross-sectional data sets, etc.), creation of descriptive statistics and graphics with R
- Support in the organization of events on Stud.IP
- Provide support for project-related management and administrative tasks
- Literature research and data documentation
- Updating websites

Your profile:

- BA studies in social/political sciences or economics or a closely related subject
- Experience with the statistical software R and programming skills in R
- Knowledge of comparative politics and an interest in developing and emerging countries/countries of the Global South
- Motivation, commitment, ability to work in a team and to work independently
- Willingness to learn advanced data management and analysis
- Very good knowledge of English

We offer:

- First-hand experience with research activities with standardized survey data and survey experiments (empirical analysis of quantitative data) in international research collaborations in the field of comparative political economy
- Flexible working hours that are compatible with your studies
- A diverse working environment with equal opportunities
- Integration into the SOCIUM

Universität
Bremen

socium
Forschungszentrum
Ungleichheit und Sozialpolitik

The University of Bremen is committed to equal opportunities and diversity. If you are interested, please send your application by 09.08.2024 with a certificate of enrolment, a short letter of motivation, CV, transcript of records and, if applicable, relevant certificates as a single PDF file to Prof. Dr. Sarah Berens (sarah.berens@uni-bremen.de).

We look forward to receiving your application!